DETAILED ACTIONDouble Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Omum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321(c) may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-19 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 1-30 of U.S. Patent No. 6,620,016. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims recited in the present application are of similar subject matter but broader in scope than the claims of the patent. For example, in claim 1 of the present application "a bubble solution supply" is recited and in claim 1 of '016 "a container" is recited. However it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to modify the bubbly solution supply as claimed and make it a container for the purpose of holding more bubble solution.

Claims 17-19 are provisionally rejected under the judicially created doctrine of obviousness-type double patenting as being unpatentable over claims 31-34 of copending Application No. 10/655,805. Although the conflicting claims are not identical, they are not patentably distinct from each other because the claims recited in 10/655,805 are similar in subject matter but broader in scope than the claims recited in the 10/693,157.

This is a provisional obviousness-type double patenting rejection because the conflicting claims have not in fact been patented.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

Claims 17, 18 and 19 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by '890 to DeMars (cited on IDS). DeMars discloses a bubble generating assembly comprising a housing (12), a bubble solution supply (110), a bubble generating frame (106), tubing that couples the bubble solution supply with the bubble generating frame (98), pressure roller (94) that assumes a first position where it compresses the tubing (when the trigger is activated) to draw bubble solution from the bubble solution supply to the bubble generating frame and assumes a second position when it does not exert pressure on the tubing (when the trigger is not activated); further including a guide wall positioned adjacent the pressure roller, with the tubing extending between the guide wall and pressure roller (col. 5 lines 15-21 of the spec); wherein the pressure roller is pushed towards the guide wall to compress the tubing when the bubble solution is to be delivered to the bubble generating frame, and wherein the roller is biased away from the guide wall when the bubble solution is not to be delivered to the bubble generating frame (in that the specification states that rotation of gear 90 causes the rollers 94 to pinch off the tube against the wall...when the trigger is activated, inherently suggest that when the trigger is not activated the rollers are biased away from for wall to some degree).
